

Genesis Sound Configuration – macOS Ventura 13.2.1

On MacOS you cannot disable the audio device, but you can change the device being used.

To access the audio settings, in the top right-hand side of the desktop is the Sound icon. This gives you the option to change your default output as well as a path to other sound settings:

Please note: If you cannot locate the Sound icon, click the Apple icon - go to System Settings - Control Center and scroll down to Sound and set it to “Always Show in Menu Bar”:

Within the Sound settings, to alter default devices, select your device in the Output and Input window. Below is an example of the Jabra headset being selected as default device:
